Minivan Musings

After years of languishing in sedan land, we have crossed over to the dark side. Yes, it's true: we just bought a minivan. And that means just one thing.

I am not cool anymore.

I can't even pretend to be. Of course, I'm not even sure if it's possible for a person in their 40s to be cool or not, but once you drive a minivan as your primary mode of transportation, it's all over. It doesn't matter if you're wearing a poncho, expensive sunglasses, and Mahnolo Blahnicks while you are driving said minivan, you are not cool.

And to the other seven remaining sedan drivers in Houston, I just want to say, I'm sorry. I caved. I couldn't take the pressure anymore. I would drive up to the girls' school, and every other vehicle in the parking lot would be a minivan or an SUV, and I would be overcome with minivan envy.

Plus, I couldn't see in traffic. I was always behind somebody higher up than me. Made me want to go to Car Toys and buy a periscope so I could see what the heck was going on in front of me. Were we stopped because of a traffic light, or somebody doing something stupid? Or both? Were one of the three Department of Transportation workers employed by Harris County up ahead working? Or did somebody three hours ago have a fender bender and people were just now getting over it?

Plus, I felt like a parasite. Every time one of my friends with kids wanted to go somewhere with me and the girls, she had to drive because only she could fit us all in one vehicle.

Before we bought the van, Dear Husband fixed me with an earnest stare and said, "Now, I want you to keep this van nice." "Oh yes," I replied, nodding earnestly. "I will."

Who was I kidding? From the time I was sixteen and tooling around town in a spiffy 1972 Datsun B210, I have always regarded vehicles as traveling storage space. Need a snack? I got one in there. An article of clothing? Start digging, you'll find a nice variety. A wipe? A juice box? Fall leaves? Toddler artwork? All in there. It's gotten to the point where Older Toddler's best friend asked me the other day why my van was always so messy. I just shrugged and told her it was a mystery of the universe.

The best thing about the van, though, is it has a DVD player. Yes! There is a lifetime limit to how many times one woman can listen to "I'm a Little Teapot," and I passed it a long time ago. This way, the girls can listen to music or watch a little movie with the "earbones" and Mommy can listen to Evanescence really loudly and pretend she's cool.

So, next time you're in traffic next to a minivan that seems to be riding low from some unseen weight and vibrating with loud music, just wave. The Queen of Suburban Minivan Coolness will wave back.

New Year, New Season in Life

Northwest Houston area moms find friendship beyond career

WHO: Northwest Houston Chapter of Mothers & More

WHAT: Local chapter of Nationally affiliated organization for moms seeking to transition into life after kids.

WHEN: Local moms currently available for interviews upon request.

WHERE: Northwest Houston (FM 1960, Tomball and Cyfair areas).

(Houston, TX) Any mom will tell you having a baby changes everything. And in the months leading up to the new baby's arrival, moms often spend much of their free time planning or preparing for the transition period. Statistics confirm greater numbers of women are electing to take a break from work by becoming stay at home moms or altering their work life by finding part time jobs, all so they can spend more time 'mothering'.

Here in Northwest Houston there is a group of moms who have found a unique balance: in a group that includes fun, friendship and support. The group is the Northwest Houston Chapter of Mothers & More. Perhaps what makes this group of women so unique is its diverse membership.

The group includes nurses, attorneys, a veterinarian, publicists and former corporate professionals. All of the group members have one common thread... all are moms and have somehow altered their work-life situation to better balance their families and in the process created lasting friendships.

And while the mom role is what brought them together, they also often find themselves sharing laughs at book club, a scrapbooking session, the group's monthly business meetings or other monthly social outings.

The group is open to moms of all ages and interests. Northwest Houston Mothers & More is affiliated with the National organization of Mothers & More. Like the National mission the local group hopes to create an environment that nurtures and supports moms seeking to transition into their role as moms and then back into the work place, if desired.

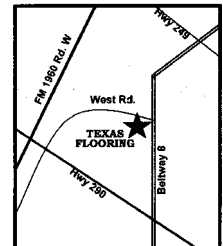

For the public to learn more about Mothers & More: <http://www.members.tripod.com/nwhmothersandmore/>

Anyone interested in the chapter may also call: 1-866-841-9139 Ext. 3204 or e-mail: nwhmothersandmore@onebox.com

Eleven Years and Still Going... Chamber Herd Rides Again

Beginning its second decade of support for Cy-Fair ISD FFA students, the Chamber Herd is once again forming to collect funds to purchase livestock at the February 5 Auction at the district's Exhibit Center on Telge Road.

Led by "Trail Boss" John Fox of Fox & Bubela Real Estate Appraisers, the Herd is a group of Cy-Fair Houston Chamber businesses and individuals. According to Fox, the biggest draw for donors is the good will they experience helping students. But he admits the Herd members also like that there are no committee meetings. Those donors and fund-raisers who want to attend the Auction do gather together at the Exhibit Center but attendance is not required and it is the only meeting, according to Fox.

The Herd's focus is on acquiring "freezer sale" animals - those that are not purchased during the auction. Last year, the Herd raised $12,985, with which they were able to purchase 12 animals that otherwise might not have been sold. The goal this year is to raise at least $16,000.

"FFA students work on their projects for months. Raising an animal requires many hours of intensive labor. I want those hard-working students to know the community cares and supports their efforts," Fox said. "I am always amazed by the enthusiasm, poise and confidence of FFA students. They learn much more than just how to raise an animal with their experience. They really learn how to run a small business," he added.

Cy-Fair ISD's Bob Singletary explains, "The Herd's participation allows students to experience entrepreneurship by raising livestock and learning all of those business skills to be a producer of a product," he said.

The Herd provides a double benefit for the community by paying for the processing of the animals purchased and donating the meat to the food pantries of Northwest, Cypress and Bear Creek Assistance Ministries.

The following generous "Trail Riders" have already reserved their spots in the Herd!

ADD NEW PEOPLE: Those who want to be apart of the "Trail Riders" in the Herd should contact the Cy-Fair Chamber now and make a pledge. For more information, call Sherri Padalino at 281-955-1100.

Backyard Grill - A Treat for WOW

By Reschele Lawrence

The Backyard Grill pulled out all the stops for WOW in January. We had great conversation over excellent food and $1.75 Ritas. And who could beat the Triple Lindy for dessert? It was the perfect night to catch up with old friends and make new plans. WOW would also like to thank the Backyard Grill for its wonderful service and for donating a $10 Gift Certificate for the Trivia Question prize.

February's WOW will be at Janine Cagney's house (11214 Carriage Lake Dr.) on Tuesday, the 22nd. Bring a friend and an appetizer to share.

Until we meet again, remember, in Life, you can't go back.

BlackHorse is the Site of the 2005 Spring Swing

The highly acclaimed BlackHorse Golf Club will be full on Monday, March 21, as the Cy-Fair Chamber gathers for its annual Spring Swing Golf Tournament.

"It is a pleasure to offer our golfers an opportunity to play on one of the best golf courses in Northwest Houston," Chamber President Darcy Mingoia said. "We are looking forward to a great afternoon of golf, networking and fund-raising," she added.

As is customary in all Cy-Fair Chamber events, a portion of the proceeds will benefit area nonprofits. The Spring Swing beneficiaries are Bear Creek, Cypress and Northwest Assistance Ministries.

"We believe in supporting our area ministries year-round and know that summertime can be a particularly trying time with fewer donations. We are committed to having these Spring Swing proceeds donated when the money is most needed," Mingoia explained.

Registration, putting contest, will begin at 9:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m. The tournament will begin with a scramble-shotgun start at 11:30 a.m. and auction will get underway at 5:30 p.m.

A wide variety of sponsorship opportunities ranging from $800 to $7,500 are available. To become a sponsor or to reserve your spot call Sherri Padalino at the Chamber Office at 281-955-1100.

In addition, the Auction Committee is looking for all types of donations including sports memorabilia, golf packages and entertainment packages including sports events, restaurants, hotels and airplane tickets. To make a donation to the auction call Jennifer Ellis at the Chamber Office at 281-955-1100.

The following sponsors to date are All Sports Trophy, Carl's Bar-B-Q, Cy-Fair College, Cy-Fair Federal Credit Union, First Bank & Trust, Jersey Meadow Golf Course, Klein Bank, Michael Mingoia, NewQuest Properties, Oceaneering International Inc., Securitas and Southwest Bank of Texas, just to name a few.
