CONSTABLE'S CORNER

By
Sergeant M. Combust

The summertime is now over and the children are back in school. With this in mind, we ask that everyone do their part to ensure the safety of the children in the neighborhood. Please watch for them as you drive through the neighborhood. Many will be waiting for their school bus at various bus stops in the morning and walking home after getting off the bus. When you see them, take the time to slow down and watch for children getting off the buses and crossing the street. If you see the bus lights on, stop and do not pass. Doing so can not only result in the issuance of a traffic citation from a patrol unit but can result in injury to a child.

Additionally, should you reside near a school and your children will be riding their bicycles to school, please invest in a locking device of some type to secure the bike to the bike rack. You may also want to engrave a marking of some type somewhere on the bicycle to assist in identifying it. Please write down the serial number on the bike and store it away. This information may assist us in locating the bicycle should someone decide to take it.

As always, you are the most effective tool in the ongoing fight to prevent crime in your neighborhood. When you see something happening that causes you to be concerned and think that the police should be involved, then make sure we are. Call to report all suspicious activity. A simple phone call to the Constable's Office can make a big difference in the prevention of criminal activity. Please make sure your vehicle's are locked when unattended even if the vehicle is parked on the driveway at your residence. Please do not leave valuables visible within your vehicle. Trust me, if it can be seen it can probably be taken by a thief. Make sure your garage doors are closed at night and when you are not outside. A little bit of prevention goes a long way.

Should you have a need for the Constable's office, please call 281-376-3472.

Have a nice day!

Neighborhood Hurricane Relief Effort Huge Success

On Labor Day, September 5, Village Creek Mom's organized a donation drive to help the victim's of Hurricane Katrina. Little did they know that a small effort originally called Moms Helping Moms would blossom into Families Helping Families.

There were magnificent results from a small idea. Residents from Village Creek and surrounding neighborhoods turned out in force to donate. Among the items collected were 39 boxes filled with clothes and 20 boxes full of diapers and wipes. Along with these, they packed 10 SUVs with toys, food, baby care items and more. The items were donated to the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, and our new neighbors in Village Creek who have moved here after being displaced by Hurricane Katrina.

Upon drop off, volunteers of the Red Cross Relief Center at the River of Praise Church were so very thankful for the toys and books so generously donated to their shelter. Since they had all the supplies necessary to make the shelter comfortable except something special for children, the Red Cross thought the charitable donation was "awesome!!".

A big THANK YOU to Village Creek residents who donated their time, items and money. All should be very proud of their efforts. It has brought happiness and smiles to countless Hurricane Katrina victims. The generosity, support and acts of kindness our community has shown has been overwhelming. All residents should be very proud to call Village Creek home.

Flower Mist Lemonade Benefits Red Cross

We wanted to thank all of the residents of Village Creek who donated to the Lemonade Stand on Flower Mist Ct. The kids and parents were overwhelmed by the generosity of the neighborhood. The children made over $900 in about 4 hours! All of the money will be donated to the American Red Cross for the Hurricane Relief Fund.

Fit Facts™

FROM THE AMERICAN COUNCIL ON EXERCISE®

Teens, Fitness and You

With all the pressures today's teenagers have to deal with, it's no wonder so many are in trouble.

Statistics show that teen suicide and teen pregnancy are on the rise, as is the firearm-homicide rate for teens. Smoking among teens is in vogue, and two-thirds of eighth-graders report that they have tried alcohol. And only about 38 percent of them get enough exercise - which means the other 62 percent are setting themselves up for a sedentary life and all the problems that come with it.

Now's the time to change these statistics. Research has shown that kids who play sports, or who are physically active, are less likely to have these problems. But getting kids to exercise is no easy task unless you're willing to spend time with them and learn to speak their language.

Quality time, quality talk

It's impossible to have good relationships with teenagers if you don't spend time with them. Don't expect teens to automatically think you're cool and trustworthy - you'll have to prove it.

Accept them for who they are and show them that you are genuinely concerned about them. Look past the way they dress or wear their hair, and learn to understand their language so you can relate to what they have to say.

A person who is a good listener has a good chance of developing relationships with teens, since most of them would rather talk than listen. Whatever it takes, learn to listen to teenagers, and offer your words of wisdom only when necessary. It's the only way to figure them out.

They're listening - What do you say?

The number-one thing you can do to help teens get active is to be a good role model. Live the life that you advocate; show them that being active can be fun, and they will follow your example. Let them know that being physically active does not necessarily mean going to exercise classes or playing sports, although these are two great options.

Hiking and camping, body surfing and playing Frisbee or paddleball are activities the whole family can enjoy. And, since they're having so much fun, teens will hardly realize that what they're doing is actually good for them.

Teenagers can participate in just about any fitness activity, whether it be weight training, mountain biking or martial arts. Many gyms are lowering their age requirements and offering family memberships and discounts to reach the younger market. Organized sports also are an excellent means of improving socialization and developing discipline and teamwork skills.

Competing with the negative

It's not easy to get your message of good health and fitness across when you're competing with the lure of television and video games. That's why it's so important to appeal to a teenager's sense of fun and need for social interaction.

Whenever possible, include others, such as their friends, in your fitness activities. Encouraging a teenager (or an adult, for that matter) to become more active can be discouraging, particularly when they seem to be tuning you out.

At some point, that encouragement may become counter-productive. Instead, continue to serve as a role model for an active lifestyle and perhaps they will one day follow your lead.

The most important thing you can do for today's youth is to help them value their lives. Being healthy and fit will put them in touch with their bodies, increase their self-esteem and help them to establish a desire to set personal goals.

Bottom line, however, is that in order to get anyone to exercise, teenager or not, it has to be fun. Teenagers aren't likely to do something just because they're told it's good for them. But with your support and encouragement, you can help put them on the path to better health that lasts a lifetime.
