Cy-Fair ISD Volunteers In Public Schools (VIPS)

VIPS Get Pinned

Sherrie Webb - Publicity

Volunteers in Cy-Fair ISD got "Pinned" at the most recent General Board meeting. Each year, the VIPS Executive Board designs a pin based on the theme for that year. The theme for the 2006-2007 school year is "Volunteers - Building for the Future". This theme was based on part on the growth and construction of new schools in our district.

The pin is given to volunteers from their home schools as a token of appreciation for the time they have given in support of students and staff. Each year, volunteers wait in anticipation to see what the new pin will look like. Volunteers collect and wear their pins from each year with pride and fond memories of their involvement in the district and how they have shared their gifts of time in our schools.

If you would like to be a part of the Cy-Fair ISD volunteer program, please contact the Partners in Education office for more information at 281-894-3950.

Community News

Prairie View A&M President Dr. George C. Wright said he realized he needed to do more to connect with the local community after the University of Houston started pursuing plans to open a satellite campus in northwest Harris County last year.

"It took this issue to bring me closer to community activities, and I realize I need to do more," Wright said to a group of Cy-Fair Houston Chamber of Commerce members at the chamber's February 20 monthly luncheon.

UH's proposal involved buying a piece of property at Texas 249 and Louetta Road and transforming it into a northwest campus with upper-level and graduate courses and degree programs. Prairie View A&M and Sam Houston State University officials expressed concern about the Northwest campus, mainly the accelerated pace of UH's proposal and the effect it could have on those two universities' main and satellite campuses. UH withdrew the proposal last October.

Wright said officials from both universities were meeting in March to talk about offering programs to students in the northwest area. Reaching out to students of all racial backgrounds in those communities who may not have access to higher education opportunities was a top priority for Prairie View A&M, he said.

UH Provost Donald Foss said there were many opportunities for universities to partner and offer programs to northwest Harris County residents. Foss and several other UH officials attended the chamber luncheon to hear Wright speak on the value of education.

Since stepping in to Prairie View A&M's presidency more than three years ago, Wright said he has been working to reach out to underserved students and to strengthen the university's core programs.

The value of education is priceless, Wright said, and his own personal story serves as an example.

"I truly believe I am one of the most fortunate people ever," Wright said.

Born in 1950, Wright was one of six children in a family living in a Lexington, Kentucky housing project. He was one of nine African-American students in his senior high school class. Ranked close to the bottom, he was not sure of his academic future.

In the wake of the tragic assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., which happened just weeks before Wright graduated, the University of Kentucky offered scholarships in honor of King to African-American students.

Wright said he received a four-year undergraduate scholarship, and a two-year scholarship for a Master's program. He received Bachelor's and Master's degrees in History. He was offered a fellowship at Duke University, which funded three years in a doctoral program.

"Education opened a wide world in to American society for me," Wright said.

Wright launched his teaching career at the University of Kentucky, and his administrative career at the University of Texas at Austin. He worked in administration at Duke University and the University of Texas at Arlington before taking over the helm at Prairie View A&M.

He said he started his presidency with two major goals: to enhance the quality of education at Prairie View A&M, and to plant the seeds of success so that future university leaders and students would benefit from years to come.

Wright said the university is nearing the end of a $30 million capital fund-raising campaign, and will reach that goal.

"All of my life I have benefited from the good deeds of others – I need to plant the seed for others to benefit when I am long gone," Wright said.

Cub Scout Pack #1533 “Cub Scouts Rock & Roar!”

Happy Birthday, Cub Scouting! February is Cub Scouting's Birthday Month and the Scouts of Pack #1533 celebrated in a “Rock & Roaring” way. On Saturday, February 24th, the Scouts at their Blue & Gold Banquet which featured the theme “Cub Scouts Rock & Roar”. Held at Good Shepherd UMC, the scouts and their guests enjoyed an evening filled with food, fun and fossils. After a dinner catered by New York Pizzeria, and skits and presentations by all the Dens, those attending were treated to an amazing program called “Dinosaurs Rock”. The boys and their guests learned about Dinosaurs, looked at real fossils, dinosaur bones and even fossilized dinosaur waste products. After the program, the Scouts participated in a “dig” and walked away with several rock and fossil specimens.

In addition to the program, the Dens also had the opportunity to compete in a “table decoration” contest based on this year's theme. A lot of hard work and creativity went into the table decorations this year and the gym was transformed into a dinosaur exhibit! The winning Dens were:

Tiger Den #9 1st place (Lazer X party)

Tiger Den #8 2nd place (Gambino's Pizza party)

Bear Den #4 Honorable Mention (Nestle Toll House cookie cake)

Webelos #3 Honorable Mention (Nestle Toll House cookie cake)

A special Rank Advancement ceremony was also held for those Scouts who had completed all their Rank requirements. Overall, everyone had a “Rock & Roaring” good time.

Of course, the Blue & Gold Banquet would not be possible without the generosity of our community. The Cub Scouts of Pack #1533 would like to thank the following individuals and organizations for their generous donations:

Admiral Linen & Uniform Service/Ryan Potter
Chik-Fil-A of Cypress
Community Coffee/Tony Parente
Gambino's Pizza-Fairfield
Nestle Toll House Café-Fairfield

Kroger-Spring Cypress
New York Pizzeria
Lazer X of Cypress
Massey-Fair Industrial Sales, Inc.
Thompson & Marcet Interest Corporation
Goodsen Honda/Kevin Shutt
Good Shepherd United Methodist Church
Dr. Mike Leheuw, Pastor, Fairfield Church of Christ

Thank you also to everyone who generously donated to the silent auction baskets. And, thank you to all those who successfully bid in our silent auction. It is through your generosity that we were able to make our banquet a “Rock & Roaring” success.

Upcoming events:

March 23rd-25th Annual Spring Family Campout;

April 28th Scout Fair

Cub Scout Pack #1533 is having a great year. It's not too late to join the fun. Every boy is welcome; regardless of what school he attends. AESTHETIC AND FAMILY DENTISTRY

DR. A. SUNDRANI

Dental Tip of the Month.

Do your gums bleed?

By: Dr. Asim Sundrani

Hello Friends

Bleeding gums has become a pandemic in this country.

Why do gums bleed?

The main reason the gums bleed is due to plaque being left in the crevices of the gums. Plaque occurs when living bacteria feed off your gums due to food or debris being left there. These bacteria colonize and irritate the gums.

This plaque eventually becomes hard as a rock, which we call calculus. Once it becomes calculus, you won't be able to remove it. Only a dentist will be able to. This calculus can play a big part in the gums receding.

Some other reasons gums can bleed is due to brushing very hard with a toothbrush. Another reason can be due to people using toothpicks, which can severely damage the gums.

If you suffer from bleeding gums see your dentist immediately. They can prevent gum disease from ever taking place and, worse, spreading.

Bleeding gums has led to this dangerous bacteria getting in your body and causing heart diseases and complications in the fetus.

Harvest Bible Church

Did you know? ... The historical Jesus and his subsequent death, burial, and resurrection has never been proven a hoax – after almost 2,000 years! In fact, the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus remains as much a fact of history as the life of Plato, Alexander the Great, George Washington, and your great-great-grandfather. It's an account that would have been impossible to concoct, and has proven to be just as impossible to prove false for skeptics.

An archaeological discovery about 25 years ago has recently come to light where the bones of a man named Jesus (equivalent to "Joshua") and a woman named Mary were found buried together. Now in spite of the fact that these were two of the most common names during that time (and even in the present day), some folks have already concluded that the foundation for the Christian faith has a large crack. Why? Because the Da Vinci Code has already convinced many that Jesus was married to Mary Magdalene. Isn't it amazing how Hollywood producers have been able to expose what no Jewish or Roman authority in the first century could and what no archaeologist or historian after 1,900 years has been able to prove? The facts remain the same however. Facts don't change over time in spite of what people choose to believe.

It's actually a wonderful thing that people through time have undertaken the task to try and disprove the literal resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. Those that have researched the event either convert to Christ or publish books that reveal they have no idea what actually happened. One of the most prominent members of the Jesus Seminar actually suggested that Jesus' body was dug up by dogs and dragged away! I suppose that's one way to reject it.

Now if the resurrection isn't true, then none of us have the right to believe it. Furthermore, without Jesus' literal resurrection from the grave there is no Christianity! We stand or fall on this one event in time and space. If proven false Christianity is nothing but a pathetic religion based on myth. "And if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile" (1 Cor. 15:17).

Consider a few items:

1. Following Christ's death on a Friday he was put in a tomb. Sunday morning it was empty – a fact witnessed by everyone who was told Jesus had risen, from the Jews to the Romans.
2. The stone that covered the tomb with the Roman seal on it was moved away.
3. The Roman seal was broken – a crime punishable by death (this means that no one dared steal his body for fear of execution).
4. The Roman guard, at least 4 men, went back to Jerusalem to report the body of Jesus was gone. For them this was a life threatening situation because the body they guarded was gone.
5. Jesus was seen alive after his resurrection by over 500 people (1 Corinthians. 15:6).
6. The men who followed Jesus all died as martyrs, telling others Jesus had risen from the dead. Men don't die for a lie – certainly not 12 of them without at least one dissenter.
7. More lives have been changed from this one event for almost 2000 years, and continue to be changed, than any other.

Now if Jesus Christ did indeed rise from the dead – literally – three days after his torturous crucifixion on the cross then he is God, as he claimed to be. After all, all the other leaders of world religions are dead, but Jesus Christ is alive! And if Jesus is God then what he says is truth. His words are life, and none of his claims have failed, though some await their future fulfillment. So be careful what you hear coming out of Hollywood. It makes for great entertainment, but it reflects bad history, bad theology, and absolute cowardice in some cases.

Harvest Bible Church is dedicated to teaching God's Word verse-by-verse and training God's people to know the truth.

Fairfield Church of Christ (Mason Road and Chappell Knoll)

"Discovering the Heart of Christ, in the Heart of Fairfield."

WHAT IS IN YOUR FUTURE? About 2 years ago my wife and I were on a cruise through the western Mediterranean aboard a Princess liner. At dinner we noticed an elderly lady sitting alone along the rail of the grand stairway in the main dining room. I also noticed that all the staff, ships officers, waiters, busboys, etc., all seemed very familiar with this lady. I asked our waiter who the lady was, expecting to be told that she owned the line, but he said he only knew that she had been on board for the last four cruises, back-to-back. As we left the dining room one evening I caught her eye and stopped to say hello. We chatted and I said, "I understand you've been on this ship for the last four cruises". She replied, "Yes, that's true." I stated, "I don't understand" and she replied, without a pause, "It's cheaper than a nursing home". So, there will be no nursing home in my future. When I get old and feeble, I am going to get on a Princess Cruise Ship. The average cost for a nursing home is $200 per day. I have checked on reservations on a Princess and I can get a long term discount and senior discount price of $135 per day. That leaves $65 a day for: 1. Gratuities which will only be $10 per day. 2. I will have as many as 10 meals a day if I can waddle to the restaurant, or I can have room service (which means I can have breakfast-in-bed every day of the week). 3. Princess has as many as three swimming pools, a workout room, free washers and dryers, and shows every night. 4. They have free toothpaste and razors, and free soap and shampoo. 5. They will even treat you like a customer, not a patient. An extra $5 worth of tips will have the entire staff scrambling to help you. 6. I will get to meet new people every 7 or 14 days. 7. T.V. broken? Light bulb needs changing? Need to have the mattress replaced? No Problem! They will fix everything and apologize for your inconvenience. 8. Clean sheets and towels every day, and you don't even have to ask for them. 9. If you fall in the nursing home and break a hip you are on Medicare, if you fall and break a hip on the Princess ship they will upgrade you to a suite for the rest of your life. Now hold on for the best! Do you want to see South America, the Panama Canal, Tahiti, Australia, New Zealand, Asia, or name where you want to go? Princess will have a ship ready to go. So don't look for me in a nursing home, just call shore to ship. PS: And don't forget, when you die, they just dump you over the side -- at no charge. ---copied

Through this work, the people who were there at the cross come alive and tell their story. There at the cross we find our Lord who experienced all our sorrows and suffering, but offers us the miracle of hope and life." Pepper Choplin, composer. We will share communion.

Round Up a Team for Relay For Life

(Houston, TX) - It's that time again – the American Cancer Society Relay For Life is happening in Cy-Fair on April 27-28, 2007. What is Relay For Life? It's your chance to become involved with the community in the fight against cancer. It's your chance to remember those who have passed by helping raise funds for cancer research. It's your chance to support the cancer survivors in your community. It's a way for you and your friends and family to make a difference in the lives of many people – all in one evening.

Since the mid-1980's, the American Cancer Society has held Relays throughout the country to bring communities together in the fight against cancer. From the time of its inception until now, over $243 million has been raised to aid in cancer research as well as education, advocacy and patient service programs. People just like you get together and form teams of 8 to 15 or more to walk through the night and raise money and hope by the start of a new day. Survivors are invited to come and join in the festivities, which include the opening lap around the designated track walked by survivors, entertainment, fun and games, and remembrances of those who have fought a good battle against cancer while they were with us.

This year's Relay For Life of Cy-Fair will be held at Cy-Fair College, located at 9191 Barker Cypress Road (on the corner of West Road and Barker Cypress). Opening ceremonies begin at 7 p.m. and the Relay continues until 7 a.m. So get together, get a team, and get involved in this year's Relay For Life. For more information, or to sign up to walk or volunteer, please visit our web site at www.acevents.org/cyfair or call (832) 200-2821. For more information about cancer please call 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

2007 B.F. Adam Classic Golf Tournament

The Cy-Fair Education Foundation is banking on another successful spring fund-raiser to draw community dollars and support for Cypress-Fairbanks Independent School District student scholarships. The 2007 B.F. Adam Classic, a 4-person Scramble Golf Tournament, will be held May 7 at Raveneaux Country Club, 9415 Cypresswood Drive.

"The tournament is the single-largest annual fund-raiser for the Cy-Fair Education Foundation," said David Carter, chairman of the 2007 B.F. Adam Classic committee. "The funds raised support a high percentage of student scholarships."

Carter said the committee is searching for sponsors for the tournament and surrounding events. CapitalOne and Towne Lake, a Caldwell Watson development, are generous underwriters.

Sponsorship opportunities include: Platinum ($7,500), Gold ($5,000), Silver ($2,500) and Bronze ($1,500); Patron ($1,250); Team ($800); Pin ($300 – limited to 36); "Friends of the Foundation" ($150); and other sponsorships that include inclusion of a logo on tournament giveaway items.

"I encourage everyone to donate as much as they can – the funds will benefit several students," said Bob Adam, son of the late B.F. Adam for whom the tournament is named. "It is a great day of fun, and the largest non-celebrity golf tournament."

B.F. (Bernard Fred) Adam was a lifelong Cy-Fair resident and a devoted school board member, serving 24 years on the board. B.F. Adam Elementary on Honey Grove Lane is named in his honor.

"I was blessed to have a dad like my father," Adam said. "He walked his talk."

The tournament kicks off with registration at 9:30 a.m. During that time participants can also take part in a putting contest and fuel up at lunch donated and served by Willie's Grill and Icehouse. Golfing gets underway at 11:00 a.m. with a shotgun start. Starting at 5:00 p.m. is a steak dinner served by Carl's BBQ while the evening fund-raising begins.

Silver Eagle Distributors and Coca-Cola Bottling Co. are donating beverages.

Participants can bid on a week-long stay at a beautiful Colorado home, a refurbished Coca-Cola machine, a one-year Time Warner subscription, artwork and jewelry during the live auction. Silent auction items appeal to the sportsperson in everyone with golf, fishing and hunting trips.

Raffle tickets, available for $5 each, could net a BBQ pit smoker on a trailer or a wine basket that, said Carter, is more like a wine trunk.

If foul weather comes into play, the tournament will not be rescheduled. The Cy-Fair Education Foundation appreciates all donations to the scholarship program.

For more information about these sponsorship opportunities or tournament registration, call Cy-Fair Education Foundation executive director Marie Holmes at 832-381-2333, marie@thecfef.org or visit www.thecfef.org

Little League Health Risks Anything But Minor

Baylor College of Medicine

Before letting young athletes play like the pros, know the risks – both physical and mental – of putting undeveloped muscles and bones to the test.

Dr. Joseph Chorley, assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, suggests parents wait for indicators of physical maturity before allowing their children to engage in intense, physically demanding activities and year-round sports. Indicators for boys include needing to shave and for girls, the beginning of menstruation, said Chorley, who is also a sports medicine specialist at Texas Children's Hospital.

"It is difficult to set an age at which kids should be allowed to throw a curveball (which puts undue stress on the shoulder and elbow) or play their sport of choice year-round," he said. "At 14, kids are at such different developmental stages than one another that the decision needs to be individualized."

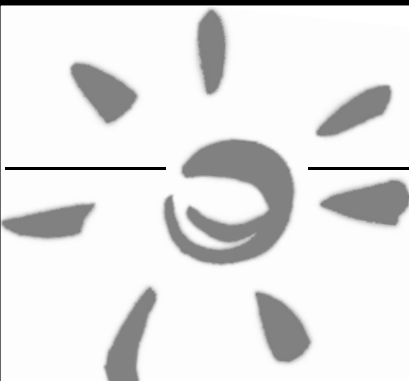

Exposing a body too soon to intense physical strains can lead to serious injury. Chorley regularly sees adolescents and children with shin splints, stress fractures and knee pain from running cross country; ankle sprains and low back pain from soccer; shoulder strains and bursitis in swimmers; jumper's knee and shoulder pain from volleyball and little league elbow and shoulder pain from pitching in baseball.

As for playing sports year-round, children and adolescents should not only be developed and physically ready for the pressures but also emotionally prepared.

"Sports are a great way to enhance childhood, but they shouldn't take away from it," said Chorley. "Often parents lose perspective; only one in 10,000 high school varsity players will ever make money in pro-sports. We shouldn't have an all-or-nothing attitude of either belonging to the physically elite or being a couch potato."

Chorley says adolescents who are serious about year-round sports can do so if they can maintain appropriate weight and growth, perform without pain and injury and meet their unique nutrition needs. He does, however, caution against psychological burnout, which can take the form of flu-like symptoms and less enjoyment of the activity.

"Whatever a young athlete's choice of sport, whether contact is involved or not, it can be detrimental if the child is not physically, developmentally and emotionally ready," said Chorley. "Both parents and pediatricians need to be aware of the risks."

Fit Facts™

FROM THE AMERICAN COUNCIL ON EXERCISE®

Exercise and Asthma

Many people with asthma believe exercise is not an option for them, that it will do more harm than good. The truth is that most asthmatics would likely benefit from some form of regular physical activity.

The ABCs of Asthma

Twelve percent to 15 percent of the population are considered asthmatics and suffer recurrent attacks of breathlessness. The severity of an asthma attack can vary greatly, from slight breathlessness to respiratory failure. Common symptoms include wheezing, a dry cough and tightness in the chest.

Attacks may be brought on by an allergic response, a respiratory infection, tobacco smoke, air pollutants, anxiety or stress. Exercise induced asthma (EIA) is usually brought on by vigorous aerobic activity.

Exercising with Asthma

Despite the fact that asthma may be brought on by aerobic activity, exercise may still be a desirable option for many asthmatics. Research indicates that as tolerance for physical exertion is built up over time, it is less likely that an asthmatic will experience an attack during exercise. And, in addition to reducing the risk of developing many other diseases, appropriate exercise can help asthmatics reduce stress, sleep better and feel more energized.

It might surprise you to know that even world-class athletes, such as Olympic gold medalist Jackie-Joyner Kersee, continue to compete after being diagnosed with asthma.

Have a thorough medical evaluation and obtain your doctor's permission before beginning any type of exercise program. This is an absolutely essential first step. Your physician may prescribe medications that might further aid in controlling your condition. You will need specific instructions on when to take the medication before exercising and how long the effects will last.

Once you have received clearance from your doctor to begin an exercise program, consider the following guidelines:

- ⇒ Take extra time to warm up before exercising. A prolonged period of low-level aerobic activity will help prepare your body for higher-intensity exercise.
- ⇒ Exercise toward the lower end of your target heart rate. Exercises such as walking or swimming are great for asthmatics because they are low intensity and may be done for longer periods of time. Those who wish to participate in higher-intensity exercise, such as running or fast-paced sports, should slowly increase intensity over time. Rest when necessary and listen to what your body is telling you. Strength-training exercises are unlikely to cause an asthma attack if you rest between sets.

- ⇒ Avoid exercising in polluted environments, or in cold or dry air.
- ⇒ Don't rush through your cool down; extending it can help prevent the asthma attacks that occur immediately following an exercise session. A warm bath or shower may also help.

Keep Your Options Open

Asthma does not necessarily mean you have to live an inactive life. Regular physical activity is one of the best things you can do for both your health and your overall well-being. As long as you and your physician are comfortable with your level of activity, nothing should keep you from doing the activities that keep you happy and healthy.

These exercises are listed in order from most to least likely to induce an asthma attack:

- outdoor running
- treadmill running
- cycling
- walking
- pool swimming

Spreading the Joy of Soy-Tasty and Good for You

(NAPSA)-Soy is not only good for you, it's tasty, easy to prepare and easy to find. Soyfoods are everywhere these days—in your supermarket, in restaurants, even in coffee carts and cafés. There's good reason. Soyfoods are high in protein, low in saturated fat and cholesterol and good for almost everyone—dieters included. Many soy-based alternatives to popular American food items are higher in protein, lower in calories and in fat, and also provide fiber, which helps make them satisfying.

Take a trip to the vegetable section of the frozen food aisle and pick up some shelled edamame (green soybeans). These pretty little beans are amazingly versatile and easy to work with.

During Soyfoods Month, which is April, many markets will be offering you opportunities to savor soy with in-store demos and samplings, classes and more.

Easy Edamame Dip—Delightful flavor, high in protein and low in calories.

This easy dip is a beautifully green variation of hummus. Serve with toasted wedges of pita bread, fresh vegetable dippers or soy crackers.

Edamame Dip

- 1½ cups shelled edamame (green soybeans)
- 1 tablespoon extra-virgin olive oil
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon ground cumin
- 2 garlic cloves, peeled
- ½ cup parsley sprigs
- 3 tablespoons water
- 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

Prepare edamame according to package instructions, omitting salt. Drain. Place oil, salt, cumin and garlic in a food processor; pulse two to three times or until garlic is coarsely chopped. Add edamame and remaining ingredients; process one minute or until smooth. For a thinner consistency, add another tablespoon of oil and pulse. Spoon dip into serving bowl. Yield: 8 servings.

Early Hearing Tests Improve Children's Recovery From Meningitis

HOUSTON – Hearing loss and its impact in social interactions can be potentially minimized in children with bacterial meningitis through early identification.

A study lead by Dr. Walter Kutz, a former Baylor College of Medicine resident and now a fellow at the House Ear Clinic in Los Angeles, found that children with the streptococcus form of meningitis – marked by high fever, long hospital stays, facial muscular paralysis and seizures – had a higher rate of hearing loss compared to children with other forms of meningitis.

But determining which children are most at risk and testing for hearing loss sooner allows for earlier treatment where necessary, lessening long-term social difficulties.

“Patients with earlier diagnoses are typically able to return to school sooner and experience fewer problems interacting with others than if their hearing loss had not been detected,” said Dr. Carla Marie Giannoni, assistant professor of otolaryngology at BCM and a co-author of the study.

It is recommended that children suffering from any form of bacterial meningitis have their hearing tested to provide early identification of hearing disability and minimize long-term, adverse outcomes due to hearing loss.

Herbal ‘Remedy’ May Be Hazardous During Pregnancy

HOUSTON – A professor at Baylor College of Medicine cautions that the herbal extract ginger may not be a safe option to relieve nausea and vomiting associated with pregnancy.

The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology had previously stated that limited evidence supported the use of ginger as a non-pharmacologic option for treatment of morning sickness.

But Dr. Donald Marcus, professor of medicine and immunology at BCM, is concerned that the evidence for the safety of such a recommendation is poor. He takes issue with the designation of ginger as non-pharmacologic. Ginger extract contains many chemical compounds, including some that are similar to anti-inflammatory medications that may interfere with blood coagulation or kidney function.

Further, there are no rigorous studies of the potential dangers of ginger or other dietary supplements during pregnancy. “Although the public and some health care professionals believe that herbal medicines are relatively safe, there are remarkably little data to support that assumption,” Marcus stated.

Experts Offer Best Bets In Beverages For Kids

HOUSTON – When your kids want something to drink, reconsider that juice box.

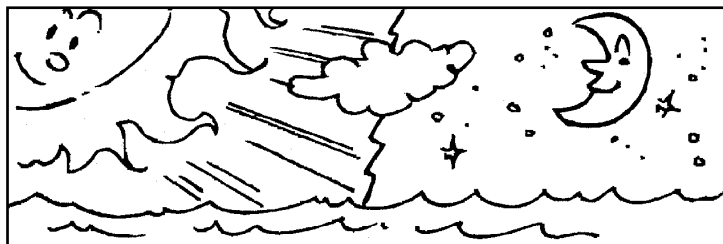

“Many parents are confused about what is and what is not a fruit juice,” explained Marilyn Swanson, registered dietitian at the USDA/ARS Children’s Nutrition Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine and Texas Children’s Hospital. “If the label does not say 100 percent juice, it is not genuine fruit juice.”

Fruit-flavored beverages, like many of those handy juice boxes, have sugar content that is comparable to sodas. A better option is to substitute actual pieces of fruit.

Healthy beverage choices are important throughout the day to keep kids hydrated and to provide good nutrition. Swanson recommends that children drink mostly water, then low-fat or skim milk, and then real fruit juice in moderation. Sodas should be limited since they are full of sugar and have no nutritional value.

She also offers two main strategies for parents: make healthy options available and be a good role model.
