CY-FAIR ISD BEGINS NEW VOLUNTEER TUTORING PROGRAM

TAG (Targeting Achievement Globally) is a new program designed by the Cypress-Fairbanks ISD Curriculum Coordinators for Math and Science and the VIPS Executive Board to provide tutoring for students in need of help to reach their full academic potential. In this first year of the program, three elementary schools have been chosen by the district as targets for the TAG Team. Members of the Team will be working with students on those campuses on a consistent basis for the remainder of the school year.

An initial orientation meeting was held on October 30 at the Berry Center for volunteers interested in being a part of this cutting edge program. Ongoing training with the Math and Science Helping Teachers will be provided for volunteers prior to working with students.

If you are interested in joining this elite group of volunteers and being a TAG Team pioneer, please contact the Partners in Education Office at 281/894-3950 for more information.

An Invitation to All the Women of the Community

Please join us on Tuesday, January 15th and every Tuesday for twelve weeks for an evening of study and fellowship with author Mindy Ferguson as she presents her study "Walking with God".

In this Bible study, you'll discover why walking with God means living your faith. It's trusting in Him and Him alone.

It's seeing the giants, but stepping confidently into the future because you believe the promises of Christ.

Walking with God is the difference between slavery to sin, and freedom in Christ. It's victory not defeat. It is living the promised life!

Strawberries Boost Heart Health

(NAPSA)-First it was cholesterol, then “bad” cholesterol (LDL) and “good” cholesterol (HDL). Now there’s a new factor that may be important in predicting the risk of heart disease: it’s called C-reactive protein, or CRP. A new Harvard study suggests that eating strawberries at least two times a week may be associated with reducing elevated CRP and LDL levels.

CRP is a protein in the blood that is elevated in response to injury, such as the chronic injury to blood vessels that comes from having damaged arteries. Previous studies have shown that elevated CRP may explain heart disease in people who otherwise appear to have very low risk, even among those with normal cholesterol levels.

Eating a diet rich in fruits and vegetables can lower CRP, an effect attributed to the high amounts of antioxidants found in these foods. Because strawberries are an antioxidant powerhouse, they were singled out for a closer look by nutrition scientists.

In the new study, diet records and blood samples from 27,000 women enrolled in the Women’s Health Study were analyzed and compared with their risk of developing heart disease over a 10-year period. When the women were separated into high- and low- strawberry intake groups, those with the highest intakes-two or more servings of strawberries a week-were found to be less likely to have elevated CRP in their blood. They also had slightly lower cholesterol levels.

Although the study was not designed to show cause and effect, the findings add to a growing body of research showing how eating strawberries may support a healthy heart.

The researchers also noted that the women who ate the most strawberries were the same ones most likely to engage in a heart-healthy lifestyle. They ate more fruits and vegetables daily, exercised more and smoked less.

For more information about California strawberries and heart health, visit www.calstrawberry.com.

A healthy indulgence: Strawberries may reduce the risk of heart disease.

The Importance of Physical Activity

Submitted by Alica Harrison

"The first wealth is health." —Ralph Waldo Emerson

The evidence is growing and is more convincing than ever! People of all ages who are generally inactive can improve their health and well-being by becoming active at a moderate-intensity on a regular basis.

Regular physical activity substantially reduces the risk of dying of coronary heart disease, the nation's leading cause of death, and decreases the risk for stroke, colon cancer, diabetes, and high blood pressure. It also helps to control weight; contributes to healthy bones, muscles, and joints; reduces falls among older adults; helps to relieve the pain of arthritis; reduces symptoms of anxiety and depression; and is associated with fewer hospitalizations, physician visits, and medications. Moreover, physical activity need not be strenuous to be beneficial; people of all ages benefit from participating in regular, moderate-intensity physical activity, such as 30 minutes of brisk walking five or more times a week.

Despite the proven benefits of physical activity, more than 50% of American adults do not get enough physical activity to provide health benefits. 25% of adults are not active at all in their leisure time. Activity decreases with age and is less common among women than men and among those with lower income and less education.

Insufficient physical activity is not limited to adults. More than a third of young people in grades 9-12 do not regularly engage in vigorous-intensity physical activity. Daily participation in high school physical education classes dropped from 42% in 1991 to 33.0% in 2005. In 2005, 10% of high school students did not participate in any moderate or vigorous physical activity.
