Breakfast With Santa Was a Success!

Breakfast with Santa was hosted by Girl Scout Troop 10327. CyFair VFD joined in the fun by parading through the neighborhood as Kay McGlamory and her red convertible led the way. Santa, the Girl Scout troop and the Chic-fil-a cow and family and friends followed behind on a trailer driven by Dan Hassebrock.

Once back at the clubhouse, guests began to arrive with their wish list for Santa. The girl scouts and volunteers, Haley Dool and Brianne McDaniel helped the children make a craft and decorate donut holes.

Everyone enjoyed the chicken minis provided by Chic-fil-a, and apple dippers provided by McDonalds. A suggested admission was an unwrapped child's gift or cash donation to Children's Protective Services.

Girl Scout Troop 10327 includes Grace Cirelli, Lindsey White, Amy Kubinski, Chelsea Veselka, Elizabeth Teague, Julia Byrne, Jordan Parker, Caroline Hill, Lauren Kelley, Haley Hassebrock, Kallie McShane and Grace Sevier.

Plans are already underway for the Annual Easter Egg hunt!!!

HEALTH BRIEFS

Baylor College of Medicine

DON'T LOSE SLEEP OVER NIGHTTIME BED WETTING

Giving children control over bed wetting helps them overcome not only the nighttime nuisance but also the stigma of it, say doctors at Baylor College of Medicine.

"Because studies have yet to identify the cause of nighttime bed wetting, no one treatment is guaranteed to work for everyone. Nevertheless, the course of action with which the child is most comfortable tends to produce the best outcome," said Dr. Edmond T. Gonzales, Jr., professor of urology at BCM. "With parents' support, giving children an active role in treatment builds confidence."

Some of the treatment options include prescription medications. One commonly used medicine makes the body react as if dehydrated so the kidneys retain liquids overnight. Another treatment involves an alarm system worn in pajamas that sounds when it becomes wet.

More commonly, doctors suggest parents limit the amount of liquids children drink in the evening and schedule a bathroom break before bed. Gonzales said family doctors can help rule out any major health problems that could be contributing to bed wetting before discussing the many options.

CELL PHONE USAGE MAY SEND WRONG MESSAGE

If you roll your eyes when people are chatting away on their cell phones in a public place, you're not alone. According to an expert at Baylor College of Medicine, public cell phone use may show disrespect and impede social interaction.

"Depending on the situation, cell phone use can be problematic," said Dr. Catherine Barber, assistant professor in the Menninger department of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at BCM. Talking on your cell phone at social events conveys that other people's time is not as important as yours. Loud cell phone talk can intrude on others' privacy and need for quiet, and it can even make people feel uncomfortable.

Romero suggests talking quietly if you must use the phone, or excusing yourself to take a call and making it brief. She suggests not accepting non-urgent calls. It's important to be mindful and respectful of others around you, said Romero. If someone around you is disturbing you with their cell phone conversation, Romero suggests gently approaching them and asking them to reduce their volume. It's important to convey that you are not angry. If they refuse, remove yourself from the situation.

Have You Googled Lately?

Submitted by Laurie Scott

Google is best known of course for its search engine (with 65% of the market no one is even close), and perhaps you're also a user of gmail, Google's free email service, but did you know that Google also offers everything from photo editing to telephone services for free? The list is too long to cover everything here, but here are a few highlights you might be interested in:

- PICASA - This is a very easy to use photo editing program that can do everything from correcting color, contrast and saturation with a single click to automatically finding the "red" in the red-eye in your photos.
- GMAIL - With gigabytes of free storage that grows everyday, gmail is a great email alternative. With an excellent junk mail filter and superfast searches of all your messages, it is worth taking a look at.
- GOOGLE DOCS - Looking for a free alternative to a locally installed office productivity suite, Google Docs offers what most people need through your web browser, including a word processor, spreadsheet and presentation manager.

- GOOG-411 - Hate paying a dollar or more just to dial 411 from your cell phone? Next time dial 1-800-GOOG-411 (800-466-4411) and forget those high cell-phone fees.
- CALENDAR - Google Calendar makes it easy to sync all your calendars together and share events with your friends. It can work alone or with most mail clients on your computer and cell phones.

- GOOGLE VOICE - How about one phone number for the rest of your life? With Google Voice you can get a free phone number that when called, will ring one or several phones of your choice at the same time, take messages and then forward a transcript via SMS to your cell phone. You can listen to your messages on the web, and even place calls from your browser. You can also have customized voice mail greetings depending on who is calling you.

- Blogging - Have something to say and want your own place to say it, then you want Blogger. If it's interesting to you, then publish yourself for nothing more than the time it takes you to write.
- GOOGLE HEALTH - Store your family's medical records securely online, making it easy to share with your doctor or other physician when necessary
- GOOGLE EARTH - Take a look at the neighborhood where you grew up, or maybe the home where friends overseas live. With Google Earth you can tour the world from your computer.

Google encourages its employees to take a certain amount of time to work on projects they find interesting, which is where a lot of Google's products come from. You can bet there will be more to come in the next year.

Britt's Book Buzz

BEAUTIFUL CREATURES By Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl

"Don't Judge A Book By Its Cover, No Matter 'Witch' One You Choose" I came across Beautiful Creatures by Kami Garcia and Margaret Stohl on the Amazon Editor's Picks of the top 100 books of 2009...with what appeared to be an intriguing plot and a gorgeous book cover, I thought I couldn't go wrong.

I was wrong. This young adult book is about a small town and a teenage boy, Ethan, who is stuck in it. The town is pretty stereotypical—nothing changes, people are narrow minded and everyone knows everyone else's business.

It seems that ever since his mom's death, Ethan's dreams are filled with a strange girl whom he is trying to save but is unsuccessful. In comes Lena, the girl whom Ethan has been dreaming about and who is a supernatural being, along with her hermit uncle and bizarre family.

During the Civil War, a curse was cast, which will directly affect Lena on her sixteenth birthday. The countdown begins as Ethan and Lena together try to save Lena's future. Does Ethan save Lena? I won't divulge the end, but I will say that all of the effort is fruitless (not necessarily the outcome, mind you, but the effort, like the continual skipping of school to research a book that they think will have the answers they need to reverse the curse. Not the best example for our young adult audience).

Even with curses, sci-fi details and an introduction to the vocabulary of the supernatural (Caster, Natural, Witches, Spells...), the book is full of fluff and is a complete disappointment. This book doesn't even compare to the Twilight series.

Lesson learned; don't judge a book by its cover.

Feel free to comment on this review, your thoughts on the book or suggest a book for me to review on my blog: <http://brittsbuzz.blogspot.com>.
