Cypress Ranch Key Club Aids Urban Harvest Annual Fruit Tree Fundraiser

On Saturday, January 18, ten Cypress Ranch Key Club members and faculty advisor Katie Lauver volunteered at the Urban Harvest Fruit Tree Sale. The event took place at the Houston Community College where hundreds of Houstonians gathered to partake in the largest annual fruit tree sale in Houston.

The volunteers from Cypress Ranch Key Club were spread out throughout the market and were assigned jobs that ranged from cart distribution to line management. The group started in the morning by uncovering the trees from their frost covers. Later in the day, they helped customers who had bought more trees than they had hands for move through the checkout line. After the event ended, the volunteers helped strike the setup of tents, fences, and wagons. One volunteer described it as, "well organized and well managed."

Urban Harvest is a nonprofit organization dedicated to promoting "healthy communities, sound nutrition and respect for the environment by educating children and adults and facilitating harvest and habitat gardens." Every year, they invite dozens of suppliers to sell their trees at this event. The sale takes place on the third Saturday in January each year. They can be contacted through www.urbanharvest.org.

With the help of the Cypress Ranch Key Club, Urban Harvest was able to nearly sell out of trees, swiftly move customers through to checkout, and effectively manage crowds. Debbie Leflar, Urban Harvest's Volunteer Assignment Coordinator reported that "the sale was a huge success, less than ten trees were returned un-sold and the parking lot was completely clean when we left." The Cypress Ranch Key Club looks forward to working with them again and urges you to support Urban Harvest.
