and motivational talk, and his engaging stories are full of detail and imagery. From growing up in a small town in Kentucky to joining the Marines, Meyer elaborates on courage, leadership, and what happened that day in Ganjigal Valley with humor and gripping anecdotes. He believes that anyone can achieve greatness, and inspires his audience to do their t. Meyer was awarded the Medal of Honor - the military's highest honor - by President Barack Obama in recognition of his acts of extraordinary valor on Sept. 8, 2009 during the Battle of Ganjigal, part of Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan. Over the course of a six-hour firefight, without regard for his own personal safety, Sgt. Meyer repeatedly braved enemy fire in eastern Afghanistan to find and save fellow members of his embedded training team. Dakota Meyer is just the third living recipient of the Medal of Honor since the Vietnam War, and the first living United States Marine in 41 years to be so honored. Humble and soft-spoken, Meyer insists that he is not a hero, and that any Marine would do the same thing.

SPICEWOOD ARTS SOCIETY

A unique opportunity begins the new year Saturday, Jan. 20, 2018, with the performance of Invoke, a genre-bending string quartet unlike anything else in Austin. The family-friendly show starts at 7 p.m. at Spicewood Vineyards Event Center.

Third in the concert series presented by the Spicewood Arts Society, Invoke has become known for their inventive take on traditional string music, dubbed “not classical. . .but not not classical.”

All four of Invoke’s members, Nick Montopoli, violin/banjo; Zach Matterson, violin; Karl Mitze, violin/mandolin; and Geoffrey Manyin, cello, received classical training. Currently they are the Young Professional String Quartet in Residence at UT-Austin, studying with the esteemed Miro Quartet.

They’re gathering accolades around the country for their fearless approach to the usually formal music, writing their own compositions weaving together bluegrass, Appalachian fiddle tunes, and minimalism. While influenced by American composers like Aaron Copland, the result is truly original.

Invoke incorporates poetry, song, and the spoken word into their music, and it’s all about telling a story.

“Everything we do stems from a love of narrative, a love for story,” said cellist Geoff Manyin.

Their second year of residency has been a busy one. Releasing their first album with vocals, Furious Creek, in October, they went on the road, performing in Columbia, SC for the Southern Exposure new music series and soloing with the Glacier Symphony in Kalispell, MT. They’ll finish their residency in May and plan to stay in Austin, finding it a rich area for collaboration. They’re also enjoying Austin’s tacos and breweries.

For more information on Invoke, visit www.invoke-sound.com.

Included in season tickets, the single ticket price for the show is $35. Parking is free. Light refreshments will be available at intermission. Spicewood Vineyards’ award-winning wine will be available for purchase.

The Spicewood Vineyards Event Center is located at 1419 Co. Rd. 409, Spicewood. For more information or to purchase tickets, see www.spicewoodarts.org or call 512-264-2820.

Art Trek Views Vaudeville

Take a behind-the-scenes peek at Austin theatre's storied past as the third Spicewood Art Society's Art Trek sets off for "Lights, Camera, Action!" February 8, 2018.

(This trek is nearly full. Check the website, www.spicewoodarts.org, for availability. Sign up as soon as possible.)

The trip begins with the Vaudeville exhibit at the Harry Ransom Center. After lunch at the Roaring Fork, trekkers take a walking tour of the Driskill Hotel and other historical buildings along Congress Ave. The day ends with a tour of the Paramount Theatre, originally built for vaudeville.

Vaudeville traces its origins to fifteenth century France, mixing barbed satire with humor and song. The Ransom exhibit examines the century-long run of vaudeville through the late nineteenth and early twentieth century in the United States and its far-reaching influence on today's comedy, television and film.

Opening in 1915 as a vaudeville theatre where Harry Houdini performed in 1916, the Paramount was converted in 1920 to a "grand movie palace" and was Austin's premiere theatre for years. Restored to its former splendor, it still hosts more than 250 performances a year, screens more than one hundred films and is a principal venue for South by Southwest. Find out more at www.paramountaustin.org.

Sign up by January 25 through the website, www.spicewoodarts.org. The tour is limited to 20 participants. The bus will leave the Barton Creek Lakeside Club lot, 1900 Clubhouse Dr., Spicewood, at 8:30 a.m. and return there at 4:30 p.m. All transportation, food, gratuities, and admissions are covered in the trek price of $120.

LTlov's Green Santa program spread the joy of the season to our neighbors challenged by limited finances, and once again, was blessed by the abundance of donations which provided gifts and family meals to 600 children in the Lake Travis area. Neighbors helping neighbors drives and fuels LTlov's mission and Green Santa program chair, Sheryl Kelly and her team witnessed this in action to serve 195 local families in need of a little extra help for the holidays with three gifts, a book and a stuffed animal for the children and H-E-B food cards to help stretch family food budgets.

The Green Santa program would not be possible without the support of the entire community and LTlov thanks all who gave of their time and resources. Thank you to the businesses and organizations whose donations made the food card program possible: Ladies of LTlov extends sincere appreciation to the residents of the Lake Travis community for the generous outpouring of toys, gift cards, and cash donations ensuring each registered child would have presents and a special holiday meal to enjoy with their family. Special recognition goes to Western Industries who donated all collection and gift boxes, Youth2Seniors who provided a stuffed animal for every child, HEB's Read3 program for the donation of 700 books, Hudson Bend Middle School, who wrote letters from Santa to each registered family and LTISD for providing the space needed to store, sort, box and distribute the more than 2000 gifts received.
