Editor's Comments

Hello readers! May is such a great month in Fairfield. The pollen has subsided somewhat, the trees are in full bloom, and our flowers are blossoming.

Our May issue is interesting for several reasons. First, you have the honor of meeting Yessenia Luna, a young woman with an incredible outlook on life. She has taken a personal obstacle she never asked for and turned it into a gift that has transformed her life. In her story, which she wrote herself, she shares a strong sense of purpose and drive. Although her health issues have caused personal setbacks, she has been able to cultivate an enduring sense of self and an everlasting feeling of pride.

Secondly, you get a glimpse into the rewards of full-measure parenting that's come to fruition. We have twenty-five scholars to applaud, and I'm convinced that is just a drop in the bucket. Never the less, I hope you take the time to get to know our graduates and congratulate them if you pass them on the street.

Thirdly, we have a Boy Scout that is here to support you in remembering our special holidays by fostering pride and patriotism. Read Matthew Crunk's story.

Also, check out the number of camps available to any student interested in history, science, or gardening.

Last but not least, please remember, we are here to share the positive good that permeates our community. If you see it, tell us, and we will convey it. Good news needs to be shared. Contact me at jackiedevine@peelinc.com.

A Teen with a Dream

by Yessenia Luna

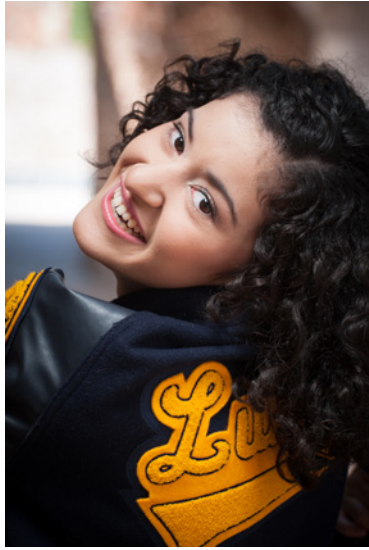

Images by Coffman Photography

The Fairfield Community Gazette is honored that Yessenia Luna shared her story with us. She composed this article. We believe that you will agree, she is a talented writer.

My name is Yessenia Luna, and I have Cerebral Palsy. On April 2, 1999, I was born dead due to negligence by the nurse who was responsible for taking care of my mom when she was in labor. The doctors brought me back to life, but the damage produced by my inability to breathe was incurable.

My life is very different from other people, especially kids my age. I do things differently, but I consider myself an average person who wants to be accepted and be successful.

Kids these days go out to parties and hang out with their friends, but I don't. In elementary school, I was the kid that everyone thought had superpowers. They wanted to hang out with me just because I was in an electric wheelchair. Now I feel that image has disappeared. As I've gotten older, I've realized that friends come and go. People don't need to have lots of friends to be happy.

Since I was three, I have attended regular classes. My mother believed I was intelligent, could understand everything going on around me, and that I had potential regardless of my disability.

When we moved to Texas, my parents told the teachers that I was in regular classes, but I guess they didn't believe them. The school authorities placed me in PPCD (Preschool Program for Children with Disabilities), so they could assess my capabilities.

When I was ready to go to kindergarten, they decided that I would go half a day, instead of the standard full-day, so I got behind. I can still remember the student teacher that was there; she told my mom that I was smarter than some of the regular students and I should be in regular classes. My mom asked me if I wanted to skip a grade so that I wouldn't be behind. I told her that I had already made friends.

Becoming a fashion designer has been my dream since I was in elementary school. I have always loved being unique in how I dressed and how I look. Art caught my attention at an early age, and it has been a tool that aids me to be creative and stimulates my imagination. As a child, I didn't see my disability as an obstacle to follow my dream of becoming a fashion designer.

Today, as a person who has a disability, I know that I will have obstacles to overcome, but I will never give up. The most important thing is for me to have hope.

I have always believed that any vocation that someone chooses can improve our society positively regardless what that career is.

My family has always been there for me. My parents have sacrificed time with their other children to be able to take me to physical therapy appointments and surgeries that would help me to be independent. My parents are the reason I'm the person I am: strong, brave, hardworking, and persistent. They have always fought against people that didn't want to give me a chance to show that I am capable and can do anything.

Having Cerebral Palsy is difficult but not impossible. I'm 19 now, and my goals are to be a fashion designer and a wheelchair model to represent people with disabilities. I have researched the field of fashion design to get an understanding of its purpose and how it can positively impact society. My goal as a fashion designer is to provide clothes for people who have disabilities and people in general.

The reason I want to design clothing for people with disabilities is, as a person with disabilities, I know what it feels like when a dress is too large or puffy to fit in a wheelchair. Or, how disappointing it is to have clothes you like turn out to be uncomfortable or way too big for your body. As a fashion designer, I will be able to create clothing for different body types and personalities.

In July, I will compete in the Ms. Wheelchair USA Pageant in Ohio. The mission of the competition is to promote glamour, self-confidence and community service, celebrating the accomplishments of women with disabilities. It gives participants the opportunity for women with disabilities to publicize their achievements, educate, and advocate for others while offering a platform for community service and public discussion.

I want to participate in Ms. Wheelchair USA because I want to show people that any individual can impact society positively regardless of their physical ability. With the title of Ms. Wheelchair USA, I will help people with special needs and who have low income to obtain the specialized equipment that will assist them in their daily lives.

I firmly believe that every individual who has a disability should be able to have special equipment despite their economic status. My goal is to provide funds and equipment for people in need, who have disabilities.

I want to be the voice for these children around the world to help raise awareness and the provide support, tools, and resources they need to have an equal opportunity in life.

I had to apply before being able to compete. When I found out that I was Ms. Wheelchair Gulf Coast, I yelled because I never thought that I would be accepted. I have opened a GoFundMe account located at <https://www.gofundme.com/profile/yessenia-luna-dwdsx> to help raise money for my competition in Ohio!

Editor's note: Yessenia will graduate from CyRanch in June. While in high school, she has been involved in a variety of activities, attended numerous events, made scores of friends, and was even selected the 2017 CyRanch Homecoming Queen.

Our Spotlight Senior for May is Lou Arce

A transplant to Cypress via New York City and Tulsa. by Jackie Devine

Lou began with a tour of his home. Resembling a cross between a photo studio and an art gallery, it gave me instant access to his talent, background, and interests. Portraits of his grandchildren graced the walls. A framed newspaper article with the heading "Policeman will preach to refugees," peaked my curiosity as did his mounds of photos stacked and categorized.

When I arrived for the interview, a high-powered MAC computer took center stage in his office and hinted at his designing and video production capabilities. To its right, an art table poised for the next project. A guitar stood at the ready to the left of his desk.

I learned that Lou attended art school in New York City where he was raised. He joined the Marines where his tour took him to Japan, Okinawa, California, and Camp Lejeune, N.C.

"While in Okinawa," Lou recalled, "I was able to leverage my art experience, and my MOS changed from Communications to Illustrator/Draftsman. I spent most of my time painting signs, screen printing, and working with a variety of equipment that is obsolete today."

"Back in the states, while stationed at Camp Lejeune, I married, and in 1963, after my discharge headed back to New York City. My first job out of the service was working as a typesetter and die cutter in an envelope company. Then, my wife and I decided to move back to her home town, Tulsa, Oklahoma."

After a temporary position as an artist, he landed a job at a typesetting company and finally snagged what he called one of "the best jobs ever" working at Amerada Hess Corporation as an illustrator draftsman.

After AHC merged, reorganized, and downsized Lou decided to change careers. He joined the Tulsa Police Force. That was a move that eventually thrust him into the spotlight as a forensic artist.

He recalled, "One morning, there was a bank robbery, and I was asked to draw the side. We ran the composite in the newspaper and got a hit on it. From then on I worked on homicides."

Before meeting Lou, I didn't realize that sketching from a description is both an art and a science. It takes talent obviously, but equally important, it requires methodology as Lou explained, "I learned through trial and error, that nobody sees the same thing. When I had more than one witness, I segregated them immediately so they wouldn't start talking to each other and become confused.

"To promote accuracy, I devised a test. While the witness sat in my office, I'd have a person enter, say a few words and hand me something.

"After he left the room, I'd ask the witness a series of questions related to the person. For example, what was his height, weight, hair color, hair style, what he was wearing? That helped me understand the witness's observational preferences, and make deductions about their responses to questions that helped me create a realistic drawing.

"One of the most significant discoveries I made was that not only does everyone see things differently, but trying to relate what they had seen was difficult. Sketching got easier, but the communication was still hard.

"Later Smith and Wesson put a kit together of laminations and overlays which aided accuracy and helped speed up the process."

While at the Police Department Lou had a religious experience. At home during prayer suspect from witness information. With the description given, I grabbed a piece of typing paper and started sketching. I'd draw, erase, and start again. When I finished, the witness said, 'Yes, that is what he looks like.' Ultimately, they captured the crook."

He went on, "Then, there was a man murdered and left on the railroad track. I was asked to reconstruct his decomposing features. After finding part of the face that was still intact, I duplicated the other one evening, he experienced what he calls a conversation with God. Suddenly, his stomach started churning. That sensation moved up through his chest, throat, and into his mouth. He began speaking an unrecognized language. But, strangely, he could think in English. Eventually, the phenomena moved outside his body, encircled his head, then shot upward.

After researching the occurrence, he learned that experience had a name. In Greek, it's known as Glossolalia, or speaking in tongues.

Lou said, "That incident transformed me, my relationships with my colleagues, and my interactions with the public. Christians on the force began gravitating toward one another. We formed a group called "Police for Christ." That experience and my new perspective also enhanced my approach in dealing with suspects, criminals, prisoners and in relating to fellow workers."

Shortly after Lou retired in 1997, he was tapped by a Private Investigator to find someone. Using the Internet and his understanding of searches, he located the person quickly.

Overnight, he tripled his income after becoming a licensed as a self-employed "Private Investigator" working with individuals, attorneys, and other private investigators.

As a retiree, and recently widowed, he focuses on keeping busy. Continuing to hone his art skills, he uses Photoshop to improve his photography, works with wood, plays his guitar, creates music and makes videos that he posts on YouTube.

Summing up, I asked, what do you believe you have learned for sure living 76 years on this planet. His answer was, "God is real, He is always there, and you are never alone."

Lou is a multifaceted, complex and very creative resident of our community. I hope you have a chance to meet him very soon.

Goal-Oriented Boy Scout by Elizabeth Crunk

Matthew Crunk is a Boy Scout with Troop 1014 and an 8th grader at Salyards Middle School. His troop offers a US flag subscription service for five holidays each year (Memorial Day, Flag Day, July 4th, Labor Day and Veterans Day). For three years, Matthew has provided these services to Fairfield residents at a cost of $40.00 per year.

The flags are usually placed a day or two before the holiday and taken down a couple of days afterward. He always tries to put the flags out over long holiday weekends early, so his customers can enjoy them longer.

The subscriptions have helped Matthew to obtain the funds to attend the 2017 Boy Scout National Jamboree and pay for all his other costs associated with Scouting such as camp-outs and merit badge classes.

Matthew shared part of his money with a fellow Scout so that he also could attend a week of Merit Badge classes over Christmas break. His friend had helped him occasionally with his service, and Matthew wanted to show his appreciation.

Over the summer, Matthew will attend NYLT (National Youth Leadership Training) for a week at Bovay Scout Ranch. In June, he will fly to the Bahamas to sail on a Catamaran at Sea Scout base for a week. And, in July, he will attend NAYLE (National Advanced Youth Leadership Experience). NAYLE allows the Scout to apply the leadership they learned in NYLT in a life setting.

Matthew has volunteered at two Big Cypress Day Camps as a Boy Scout, worked many hours to help with the Sam Houston Area Council Stem Committee events, and volunteered many hours to help with Hurricane Harvey relief with several organizations.

May Yard of the Month

Sponsored by the Fairfield Women's Club with the help of Suzanne Thompson

After the long, cold winter, yards are beginning to bounce back. It appears the Sego palms took the worst hit. Many folks are stripping the dead fronds and hop-ing the Sego palms re-sprout. All of the colorful bedding plants brighten a yard.

This month, Yard of the Month highlights the Trails of Fairfield which includes The Trails, Cottage Glen, and The Oaks.

The winner this month is Julie Burden who lives at 16403 Redbud Berry Ln. in Cottage Glen. The yard is very well maintained and trimmed. There are small, low shrubs of Dwarf Pittosporum and Holly. The bedding plants, Dianthus, Vincas, and Begonias give the hope of spring. The trees have river rock pavers around them with low growing Junipers that accent the yard. Two rocking chairs on the porch invite you to sit a while and welcome spring.

Honorable Mention Yards: The Trails 20219 Fairfield Trace Dr. 20307 Stone Falls Ct • Cottage Glen 20306 Fairfield Parkway
The Oaks 16130 Cumberland Tr. 20231 Emily Anne Ct.

Christ the Redeemer

Fair Ladies of Christ the Redeemer, or FLOC, is a faith and fellowship group for the women who live in Fairfield and Lakes of Fairhaven that attend Christ the Redeemer Catholic Church.

We generally meet once a month, usually at a member's home, or a local restaurant, and occasionally at Christ the Redeemer. Our meetings consist of food and drinks, prayer and fellowship! We occasionally have a speaker on topics that pertain to our faith, have fun craft nights, attend Christ the Redeemer events, try out new restaurants, and we also "give back" to the community and the church with some sort of charity or donation activity several times a year.

Our main goals are:

- To bring the CtR women of these two neighborhoods together to make social connections with each other,
- To support one another,
- To surround ourselves with women who share a common faith, and
- To bring those that are hesitant to attend CtR each weekend for Mass (due to the large size of the parish) back to Mass because there will be a friendly face in the crowd.

For more information, please contact Amy Wilkes at apw1974@juno.com, or search for our group on Facebook - Fair Ladies of Christ the Redeemer (FLOC) - and request to join our closed group.

We look forward to meeting you at our next event!

Community Comes Together to Support Trauma Survivors

It was a wet and chilly day, but that didn't dampen the spirits of runners and walkers at the 2018 Running for Hearts 5K Family Fun Run and Walk on Saturday, April 7 at Windwood Presbyterian Church! The community came together to support local trauma survivors including those affected by human trafficking, abuse, crime, war, and natural disasters like Hurricane Harvey.

“If someone in our community of any age has experienced trauma, Shield Bearer is the place that helps healing take place,” stated race sponsor Esther Halford of Halford Busby Construction Consultants. “Shield Bearer helps families heal and find hope again. That’s why this race is so important and why I wholeheartedly support it.”

Runners and walkers of all ages warmed up with the coaches of Iron Tribe Fitness and local DJ KLS Entertainment before a timed, trail style 5K and 1-mile family walk. Kids enjoyed activities like face painting, fire truck tours, egg relays, photos with the Chick-fil-A cow, and a giant inflatable soccer goal from Sport Quest. “We love how Shield Bearer is helping families and had such a great time being part of this event. It was a privilege to be involved,” stated Jim Spence, Sports Quest founder and a medal winner in the race.

Over fifty volunteers including teens from local Cy Fair ISD and Klein ISD helped with set up, activities, cheering, and planning the event. “It really is a labor of love for our volunteers. Many of them have been working on this race for months. They do it because they want struggling families right here in Northwest Houston to have access to counseling services and educational programs. They know their support helps change lives for the better," stated Shield Bearer Associate Director Melissa Rotholz.

Over three dozen local businesses joined in the fun this year, many offering prizes and discounts for race attendees. Race sponsors included Avanti Senior Living, Halford Busby Construction Consultants, Action Specialties, Tonya and John Frye, Kintegrity Development Services, Lindsay's Light, Kroger, Windwood Presbyterian Church, Misfit Design Group, Amegy Bank, Fox Focus Photography, Iron Tribe Fitness, Houston Methodist Willowbrook Hospital, Chick-fil-A, Proline Supply Company, Sprouts, HEB, and Sports Quest. Race day vendors included Aire Serv of Houston Northwest, Louetta Foot and Ankle Specialists, Ava Ray-Personally Poetic, The Get Together Northwest, Pure Life Family Wellness, Good Moves Properties, KoolAuf, Kim Howell-Mary Kay, Lesa Young-doTERRA, Reason 2 Race, Ducerus, Texas C.R.E.S., Brookside Funeral Home-Champions, Harris County Precinct 4 Commissioner R. Jack Cagle, and BioLife Plasma Services.

Shield Bearer Executive Director added, "It was wonderful to see the support of businesses, churches, and the race participants. It takes all of us working together to make a difference in the lives of our neighbors and to strengthen our community. We look forward to building this event at Windwood Church for years to come."

For more information about getting involved at Shield Bearer, a Houston based 501c3 nonprofit organization that provides professional counseling services and programs for individuals, couples, and families, visit shieldbearer.org, call (281) 894-7222, or join them for a free community breakfast the first Tuesday of each month at 9AM at 12340 Jones Road Suite 290, Houston, TX, 77070.

Mormon Missionaries

Howdy! Our names are Sister Molisi and Sister Whittier. We have been called to serve as your local missionaries through the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints! You've probably seen us riding around the community on our bikes (who else would bike in a skirt?? ;)).

Our first names aren't actually "Sister," but that is the title we go by as missionaries (if you've met the boys in white shirts and ties, they go by "Elder").

Mormon missionaries serve all over the world-- but never in their home town. We aren't from Houston originally, but have been called to serve the people here in the greater Houston area for a period of 18 months. There are over 100 missionaries (Elders and Sisters) serving in Houston, but the two of us are blessed to be assigned right here in the Fairfield area for now. However, every 6 weeks, we have the potential to be assigned to another community instead (Katy, Conroe, Tomball, etc).

Our missionary service was voluntary, but it is something we wanted to do because we have seen how much the message we share has blessed our own lives and families and we want everyone to have the opportunity to learn about it. Sister Molisi is 19 and Sister Whittier is 21, but we have stepped away from the typical young adult life of college, work, and time with family and friends to dedicate all of our time to missionary work (our Savior Jesus Christ sacrificed His life for us; it's the least we could do to sacrifice 18 months of our lives to serve Him 24/7).

What we love most about being missionaries is getting to meet so many wonderful people--like y'all! You might have noticed that we love to wave when you drive by, stop and chat with you when we cross paths, and even knock on your doors so that we can meet your families. Our purpose as missionaries is to invite others to come unto Christ--whether someone has strong faith or isn't really sure. The message we share is not intended to replace anyone's faith, but to continue to help it grow. We share a book called the Book of Mormon: Another Testament of Jesus Christ (you've probably heard about it) and invite everyone to read from it. Ultimately, we strive to represent Jesus Christ in all that we do--so we do a lot more than just explain why the Book of Mormon is central to our message about the Savior. We are happy to show people around the local church building, study the scriptures (the Holy Bible and the Book of Mormon!) with anyone, visit those who may be elderly, ill, or otherwise would benefit from having a friend to talk with, and especially serving in any capacity that we can (whether it's your own yard or house work or a community service project).

Although we (Sister Whittier and Sister Molisi) won't always be your local missionaries, there will always be missionaries from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints here in the Fairfield area. The missionaries for this area can always be reached at (832)-515-1357. Call or text us if you need anything or want to learn more. We promise we're cool!

Spring Break Student Missions

Second Baptist Students made a big impact over Spring Break! Fairfield salutes the dozens of middle school students who served local communities in the 5th Ward over the break!

Another team of high school students and their leaders flew to the Dominican Republic to serve local residents there.

Jonathan Spencer, Adult Ministries Pastor remarked, "Second Baptist is very proud of those students that so unselfishly gave their vacation time to serve as the hands and feet of Christ!"
