One Chapel Lake Travis - Leaving a Legacy

Spicewood, TX - With a budget of under $4,000, and a timeline of 36 hours, a team of nearly 80 volunteers from One Chapel Lake Travis swooped in to Little Country Diner to bless Gulcan and Remzi Tireng, the restaurant owners, with a total makeover of the exterior and interior of the restaurant, Sunday, March 25, beginning at 1 pm, and Monday, March 26. The exterior tasks included rebuilding, painting and staining the front deck, stairs and ramp, painting the outside of the building, and building and placing a new sign on the roof. Inside, walls, trim and storage spaces were painted, new lights and air conditioner units installed, two completely new bathroom facilities rebuilt, the front desk and entryway redesigned and refurbished, and the entire restaurant and all its furniture cleaned from floor to ceiling.

During the makeover process, the Tireng's fed the crews delicious fare, from lunch to dinner on Sunday, and back to breakfast, lunch and dinner on Monday. It was a thoughtful measure to serve all those volunteers!

In December 2017, One Chapel conducted a "Legacy" series with a designated offering and members donated generously to support Austin, Kyle and the Lake Travis communities. In Lake Travis, every person on staff at the nearest elementary school, West Cypress Hills, was blessed with much-appreciated Christmas cash. Members of One Chapel Lake Travis asked, "to who else could the church show love during this time of growth and expansion of the area? To allow a positive light in the community to shine even brighter?"

After some inspiration from the Holy Spirit, the OC LT Corporate Lead Team decided to approach the nearby neighbors and church members, the Tireng's, at Little Country Diner, located at 22000 Hwy 71 West. A few members asked if they if they would allow the church to bless Little Country Diner with a makeover. It took some convincing, but a date was set.

Interior designer and OC LT member Bami Wood, former homebuilder and church member Danny Harrell and former independent contractor and OC LT Children's Ministry Leader Logan Schwandt led the group. Wood formed a story board for the project to obtain the best results within budget, built the design through color, materials and artwork, and shopped for OC LT Legacy fixtures and accents, in addition to asking for materials donations. Harrell planned, shopped Jonathan Clark and Alan Wassel, talented woodworkers. Ace Hardware in Spicewood and Lowe's in Bee Cave offered valuable donations and savings to the project.

As Pastor Russ Walker reflects on the work of so many church members serving the community, he states that he is reminded of leaving a legacy for God with the words from the Old Testament, in Ezekial 36:33-36:

for materials, and negotiated deals for lumber and extras, and at the same time raised supplementary funds to replace the sinks, toilets and cabinets in the bathrooms. Schwandt facilitated the building of the sign, organized volunteers, and served as skilled contractor for the various indoor and outdoor projects. Many other professionals offered their time and expertise. Michael Flores and LM Butler, professional electricians served, along with 33 "This is what the Sovereign Lord says: On the day I cleanse you from all your sins, I will resettle your towns, and the ruins will be rebuilt. 34 The desolate land will be cultivated instead of lying desolate in the sight of all who pass through it. 35 They will say, "This land that was laid waste has become like the garden of Eden; the cities that were lying in ruins, desolate and destroyed, are now fortified and inhabited." 36 Then the nations around you that remain will know that I the Lord have rebuilt what was destroyed and have replanted what was desolate. I the Lord have spoken, and I will do it.'

"These words are what I pray for our church to be, one of a rebuilder, cleanser, and bringing new life to our community," states Walker. "Thank you to all who participated and showed dedication to our neighborhood and our church."

One Chapel Lake Travis is part of a neighborhood of churches united in one purpose: to keep Jesus at the center of everything they do. Currently, three One Chapel churches serve the greater Austin area, in Spicewood, at 22800 Hwy 71 West, Austin and Kyle. They gather each Sunday at 9:30 and 11:30 am, and with groups during the week, to worship, explore scripture, and find community. To learn more about One Chapel, please visit: www.onechapel.com.

The Sustainable Pulse Community Series founders, Kathy Crawford and Rio Saenz are hard at work with their new non-profit as they produce two events on the weekend of May 18th. Both events are for the 'soul' purpose of raising funds for a new greenhouse to add to the Marble Falls Helping Center Garden allowing them to grow fresh produce year-round for their large Hill Country service area. The Garden Party Themed Fundraiser starts on Friday Night May 18th at The Uptown Art House, 218 Main in Marble Falls at 6:00 p.m. with appetizers, a beer and wine cash bar and a meet and greet of all sponsors. A live auction follows with a signed Willie Nelson guitar plus other special items and music provided by Louis Long and the famous Totally Terrific Band! Tickets are 50.00 per person and all proceeds go to the Helping Center Garden.

Saturday May 19th there will be a day long music Festival at Johnson Park, 230 Ave J in Marble Falls starting at 12:00 with live music, children's games and activities including Hey Lolly Music, vendors and food trailers. Beer and wine will be sold. Tickets are 15.00 in advance and 20.00 at the gate. Rain or Shine. Kids under 12 are free and bring them to try watermelon bowling or join us for attempting the longest conga line in the Hill Country!

Sustainable Pulse Community is a third-party non-profit that will be assisting many charitable causes in the future with our series. Friends for Life will be held for pets, Songs for Life will assist musicians, Home for Life will be beneficial to the homeless communities. These are just a few of the SPC series that are planned but all those that are helped through our events will be from service areas of the Hill Country including Spicewood and Marble Falls. Sponsorships and tickets for both Food for life events can be purchased at www.419eventstx.com. We are seeking vendors and volunteers and they can sign up there as well or find our contact info for questions. For those that don't buy online, we have tickets available at Uptown Art House Thurs – Fri after 1:00. Ask For Laurie Halfpenny. Health is Our Passion and Sustaining Life is Our Goal!

Kindnesspalooza To Be Held May 5 With Free Concerts And Entertainment At Hill Country Galleria

KINDNESSPALOOZA, a free family-friendly event, will be held at the Hill Country Galleria on May 5 from 12:00 - 4:00 p.m.. The Mrs band, an all-female pop rock band with a positive message, will be headlining the event. Teen music sensation Madison McWilliams is also performing along with other musical guests, including SaulPaul and Big Don.

The event will take place at the Splash Pad at Hill Country Galleria, located at 12700 Hill Country Blvd, Bee Cave. In addition to live music and performances, there will also be an appearance from the Enoughie Buddy mascot, other musical acts, the "Art of Kindness" photo booth, a Magic Mirror activation for positive affirmations, and other family friendly activities.

KINDNESSPALOOZA supports The Kindness Campaign, a non-profit foundation which supports anti-bullying curriculum in schools. This year, the curriculum has expanded from 50 to 80 schools throughout Texas.

Other activities that will be at KINDNESSPALOOZA include the Kind Market where various sponsors will give away free items.

Mosquito Repellents

As mosquito season is ramping up, everyone is (hopefully) aware of possible disease transmission by mosquitoes. It is important that you protect yourself when spending time outside.

Activity times for mosquitoes can vary. Most people are familiar with the four D's- DRAIN (standing water), DEET (wear some repellent), DUSK & DAWN (stay indoors during dusk and dawn to avoid peak populations) and DRESS (wear long sleeves and long pants). While this is still good advice, it may be a good idea to spread the dress and repellent advice for anytime you spend time outdoors.

When outside, wear long pants and a long sleeved shirt in light colors to reduce the number of mosquitoes that can reach your skin. Repellent should only be applied to clothing and exposed skin. Do not apply repellent underneath clothing! If you want to apply repellent to your face, spray your hands with repellent and rub it onto your face. Do not spray repellent directly into your face or near eyes or mouth. Make sure to apply repellent outdoors. Do not allow children to handle repellents. Wash hands before eating, smoking or using the restroom.

The Center for Disease Control (CDC) recommends using a product registered with the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) containing one of the following active ingredients: DEET, picaridin, IR3535 and some of the products containing oil of lemon eucalyptus.

DEET, also known N,N-diethyl-m-toluamide or N,N-dimethylbenzamide, was developed by the U.S. Army in 1946 to protect soldiers in insect-infested areas. Pesticides containing DEET have been used by the general public since 1957. Products containing DEET should not be used on children younger than 2 months of age (read the label and check with your pediatrician if you have questions). DEET has a slight odor and may have a greasy feel to some people. It may damage plastic, rubber, vinyl or synthetic fabrics. DEET may be irritating to the eyes and skin for some people. DEET comes in a wide variety of concentrations, so choose the one that will work best for your situation.

Picaridin was first made in the 1980's and resembles a natural compound called piperine (which is found in plants used to produce black pepper). Picaridin has been used in Europe and Australia for many years, but has only been in the U.S. since 2005. Picaridin is non-greasy and is odorless.

ester, was developed in the mid- 1970's and became registered for use in the U.S. in 1999. It is registered as a biopesticide by the EPA because it is functionally identical to a naturally occurring substance (an amino-acid). It may dissolve or damage plastics and may be irritating to the eyes.

Oil of lemon eucalyptus (OLE) or PMD (para-menthane-3,8-diol) are essentially the same thing; PMD is the synthesized (lab created) version of oil of lemon eucalyptus. "Pure" or "essential" oil of lemon eucalyptus is not labeled as a repellent and has not undergone testing and should not be used as a repellent product. OLE/PMD has been on the market in the U.S. since 2002. OLE/PMD should not be used on children younger than 3 years of age. The natural product (OLE) has known allergens within it while the synthetic version (PMD) has less of a risk to allergens. This product is classified as a biopesticide. OLE/PMD has a varying range of residual, some offering about 20 minutes of protection while other products may last up to two hours.

Many factors play into how long a repellent will last for a person. Some of these are:

- The concentration (or percent of active ingredient) of the product. You can find the percentage on the product label.
- Person's attractiveness. Some people are more attractive to mosquitoes than others (and no scientific research has proven that it is because of eating garlic, taking vitamin B, using tobacco products, etc.). A person's genetic code plays a large part on what makes a person so attractive to mosquitoes.

- Frequency and uniformity of application. In other words, how often is the repellent applied and how good of coverage did you get?
- Activity level of the person. The more active the person is, the more sweat they produce which can cause the repellent to wash off the surface of the skin.

As a word of caution, there are products that combine sunscreen and insect repellent. The CDC recommends that if you need sunscreen and repellent, that you choose two separate products. Sunscreen should be applied more often than repellents.

The Value of Sleep for Children and Teens

Shelley Coleman M.A., L.P.C.-S.

As important as food and water, sleep is vital to your well-being. And, if you are a parent, research shows that your children are not getting the sleep they need. According to the National Sleep Foundation, children (ages 6-13) require 9-11 hours of sleep per night and adolescents (ages 13-18) require 9-10 hours per night. A recent study from the Centers for Disease Control found that 31% of teens get 8 hours or less of sleep per night and most school age children are getting 8.5 hours.

For growing brains and bodies, not getting enough sleep can have consequences on school and relationships. Teens and children can have difficulty concentrating when sleep deprived. And, according to the Sleep Disorder's Center, approximately 1,550 people are killed annually in crashes related to drowsy driving. Often, these crashes are caused by young people under the age of 25.

On the contrary, quality sleep has been linked to improved attention, better mental health, and lower risk of obesity. In recognizing the importance of quality sleep, parents can help children establish healthy sleep habits at an early age. If healthy sleep hygiene is established in adolescents, those habits can carry into adulthood.

Healthy sleep habits for teens and children include:

- a set bedtime and wake time that does not vary by more than 2

hours on the weekend

- a relaxing bedtime routine such as reading for teens or story time for children
- no "exciting" activities at bedtime such as jumping or wrestling for children or computer games for teens
- daily exercise
- healthy diet
- no caffeine after 4 PM

If you think your teen or child may have a sleep issue, there are common symptoms you may notice. For adolescents, parents may have difficulty waking them in the morning or observe that their teen is irritable in the early afternoon. Children may require excessive "help" falling asleep, wake many times during the night, or cause their parents to lose sleep. While these symptoms are usually easily addressed by improving sleep habits, more severe symptoms should be addressed with the help of a pediatrician or behavior specialist.

As parents, the value that we place on sleep is a big influence on our children's attitude toward sleep. Fortunately, there are a lot of practical steps we can take to help our children get the sleep they need. There are too many benefits of good sleep for our teens and children to miss out on them.
